

2011
Sonora Bach Festival

In 1976 a group of music lovers gathered on a warm summer evening in a Twain Harte home to enjoy the immortal music of Bach. Some played their favorite pieces, while others delighted in the lovely music shared by these talented people. Little did they know they were starting a wonderful tradition of fine music, good company, and community participation.

From this modest beginning, the Sonora Bach Festival has grown into an October celebration of several events. This 35th annual festival includes a wonderful mix of performances by young people, talented local musicians, and exceptional artists of national and international acclaim. The festival provides a unique venue for our very talented local musical community and opportunities to enjoy live classical music.
